Activity Overview

- Centre of the World is more than a quiz, it's actually a strategy game in which teams need to trade information with each other in order to progress
- In each of the six rounds, the players answer questions about trivia worldwide (questions can also be bespoke)
- The tablet is hidden within the base of the table centre and is revealed during a dramatic moment during the briefing
- At the end of each round, participants will negotiate with other teams to fill the gaps in the information they have gained in that round
- Win-win and building trust is imperative in what is still a competitive activity with the highest score winning

The questions are presented through a tablet with a map of the world and a QR scanner corresponding to QR codes embedded within a stylised globe table centre
